

Storage Schedule

This screen allows users to set up and maintain storage charges for stored commodities. These schedules can vary by location, commodity, and storage type and are used to automatically accrue the storage charge on stored commodities.

Note: Changes made to the storage schedule will be effective as of the last accrual date and will NOT affect the storage charges that have already been accrued. After making changes to the storage schedule, you may test the changes in the Test tab by simulating a purchase of stored grain.
